When Governor Rusk was in attendance at the state fair in Milwaukee, he was placed on a lumber wagon from which he was to make a speech to the thousands of farmers that had assembled to hear him. He humorously remarked that he liked the platform on which he stood because he had "good and hawed" once when a young man. He had been raised on a farm and was glad of it, for it had made any progress in the world it was due to that fact.

Colonel Charles D. Robinson, of Green Bay, died at his home in that city, on Saturday. He had been editor of the Green Bay Advocate for more than thirty-five years. He had served in the assembly, was secretary of state one term, was a captain on General Rufus King's staff in the late war and was appointed colonel of the 50th regiment, but owing to bad health declined the commission. In 1869 he was the democratic candidate for governor against Governor Fairbairn. He was a man of great ability, one of the most polished writers on the state press, a good public speaker, a kind and genial gentleman. He was about 60 years of age.

It largely depends on whose or is ignored, as it will clearly appear from the Appleton Post: "Oh, no! Ah, ha! The Milwaukee Journal thinks that John Black should receive a strong vote from reputable Milwaukeeans, because he was the chairman of the grand jury that indicted the Milwaukee socialists and brought them to trial. But we had supposed the democratic party, of which the Journal is a pretty reliable exponent (notwithstanding its protestation of independence) was opposed to introducing a not issue into the campaign." The Journal is in favor of the riot issue when it will help the democrats, but is opposed to it when it will help the republicans.

NOT A POLITICAL PARTY.

The other day a dispatch was sent from New York, which stated in substance that it had been learned through the Methodist Book Concern, of that city, that the Methodist church was not only able but willing to take an active part in politics, and that it had, in a measure, pledged itself to the prohibition party. The dispatch was received with considerable surprise throughout the west as well as in the east, and especially among the ministers in New York.

The strongest religious organization in this country is the Methodist church. In wealth and membership it surpasses all other denominations. It is becoming a great power in the politics of a country. No class of Protestants have been more severe in their condemnation of the Catholic church for its alleged interference in politics than the Methodists, and well might the dispatch from New York create surprise, for it showed that the Methodist church was itself drifting toward a political policy which it vehemently condemned in the Catholic church. Right in the face of this position toward the Catholic church, the Methodist conference at Urbana, Ill., last week turned itself into a political organization, and adopted a resolution which favors free whisky until prohibition can be secured, and then went so far as to advocate by a large majority, the policy of the church to work for no man for office who is not a prohibitionist!

The New York dispatch aroused a good deal of feeling among the ministers in that city, and especially among the members of the Book Concern, and the action taken was this to inform the public that the Book Concern was "merely a book publishing and selling corporation, devoted especially to the Methodist church as a matter of course. The Christian Advocate is a religious newspaper, also devoted to the interests of the Methodists, but having no power to dictate or to instruct the Methodists as a body. The Rev. Dr. Buckley's editorial opinions are entitled to such consideration as his merits as a man and his standing as an editor and in the church win him. The Methodists are not committed to the prohibition party, nor to any third party. That organization which will best promote the cause of temperance is the party which the individual members are in duty bound to support."

So that the Methodist Book Concern has authorized the publication of the statement that it will not use its influence for a third party, and that no conference can adopt resolutions which can bind or commit the church or any part of it to the third party movement. This is a course which will meet with general approval.

THE WISCONSIN CAMPAIGN.

Mr. Rod A. Taylor, chairman of the republican state committee, has been interviewed by the Milwaukee Sentinel on the management of the present campaign. He proposes no "ball hunt" and no "bottle campaign," but an appeal to reason and the sober judgment of the people. He proposes the public discussion of live issues and principles, and justly characterizes the demagogic influence of attempting to carry elections by the use of large sums of money.

Among the many things Mr. Taylor said in regard to the campaign, was this: "We shall not only carry the state, but I believe we will largely increase our majority. It is a very important election and will bring out a larger vote than has ever been polled in the state except in a presidential year. You see we elect a full state ticket, congressmen, county officers and a legislature that selects Senator Sawyer's successor in the United States senate. And we have four parties at work—republicans, democrats, prohibition and labor. It is an election that involves a great many interests and that appeals strongly to all our people. There is a very special interest growing out of the nomination of Governor Rusk for a third term. In my judgment it is one of the most important elections we have ever had, and it will be one of the most interesting campaigns."

On the question of the riot issue he gave the following opinion which will be endorsed by very many members of the democratic party as well as by the entire republican party: "Well, it may lose some votes from one class, but it will gain far more from another. On the whole, we will gain by it. The point has been made that if the governor did wrong he ought to be defeated, and that if he did right he only did his duty and is not entitled to a reward for it. But that is not the proper way to look at the matter. Gov. Rusk is not entitled to a reward for doing his duty, but the people of the state owe it to themselves to show how they feel about the subject of riots and anarchy, and this they can do most emphatically by the re-election of Gov. Rusk. It's their opportunity to express themselves on this subject in a way that can't be misunderstood. It is re-elected by a largely increased vote. Anarchists will understand that it is not Gov. Rusk, but the people of the state, that they have to contend with, and it will be the end of an archist riots in this state at least, and go far toward discouraging them in the whole country. No, sir, it's not to reward the governor that he ought to be re-elected—it's the people's opportunity by their ballots to give anarchists such a lesson that bullets will never again be required in this state to suppress them."

The best campaigns are fought by appealing to the reason of men and not by spending money to influence votes, and on this point Chairman Taylor said: "Large sums of money are not necessary. If you have any issue at stake worth contending for, an honest appeal to the intelligence of the people is far more effective. Why, in 1877, when the green-back craze broke out with such fury in this state, the republican party met it fairly in the field of discussion and debate, and we won—we increased our majority and the party has been strong in the state ever since. And that campaign only cost about $1,500, every cent of which went for documents for the people to read and for the expenses of speakers. We lost of thousands of dollars being expended in some of our state campaigns—it's not only unnecessary but injurious, and if we want to preserve the purity of our politics and our public officers, we must abandon all bottle methods and appeal only to the honor and intelligence of our voters. We can't hope for pure officers out of corrupt elections."

This it tackled, tore off the casing, and threw the ash about thirty feet from the building, gently landing it on the ground without breaking a single pane of glass. CLEVELAND TO HAVE A CLEAR FIELD FOR RENOMINATION.

Governor Hill Only Ambitious To Be Re-Elected Head Man of New York—An Editor Who Has It Dead to Rights—Gov. Logan Talks Politics at Pittsburgh—Disagreements Between Chicago Labor Factions.

WASHINGTON CITY, Sept.—The Sunday Gazette published a half column heading article under the caption of "Significant" in which it asserts that President Cleveland and Governor Hill are in hearty accord, and that the latter is not a possible candidate. "There has," The Gazette says, "been a good deal of talk in certain quarters and not a little paper in certain newspapers over what has been styled a clash of interests between President Cleveland and Governor Hill. It has been asserted that the latter has the presidential box in his hands and that he is deliberately trying his best to lift himself to the executive office at the expense of Mr. Cleveland. All this and much more of the same tenor has been said and published until quite a pretty little hubbub has been raised. The Gazette is pleased to announce that it has the best authority for denying in toto the truth of these or of any similar stories, and makes the contradiction in its most full and emphatic terms.

"No man," The Gazette informant says, "pursues more than does Governor Hill against the use of his name in connection with the presidency by the small body of appointed politicians throughout the country."

Governor Hill's ambition, according to The Gazette's authority, is to keep the state of New York in all the discordant and conflicting incidents of large communities in the Democratic line, and to run again for governor in 1888. He is not and will not be a candidate for president in 1888. He is yet a young man and he knows it. Can, too, knows better than he that if public sentiment does not force the re-nomination of Mr. Cleveland, the next democratic candidate for the presidency will not be a New York man. The article concludes as follows: Notwithstanding the attempt to portray the candidate in the newspapers, the report against him upon unquestioned authority that the relations between President Cleveland and Governor Hill are of the most friendly character and will continue to be. There is no conflict of interests, no want of harmony in the Democratic party in New York except such as are unavoidably incident to purely local affairs, which will not interfere with any national questions or movements. Any calculations based upon a different state of affairs will surely come to grief."

LOGAN AT PITTSBURG.

The Illinois Senator on the Tenth and the Reason of the Result in 1884.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 27.—Gen. John A. Logan spoke at the evening of the Republican memorial campaign here Saturday night to a audience of over 6,000 people. Gen. Logan, the candidate for governor, also addressed the meeting. Logan's appearance here was the first of his kind since he was elected to the senate in 1884. He was well received by the audience, and his speech was listened to with great interest. The general first addressed himself to the cause of the Republican defeat in 1884, and attributed it to the mismanagement of the campaign. He then proceeded to outline the principles of the Democratic party, which he said, had failed to take steps to build a navy, had principally appointed ex-rebels to represent us in foreign countries, and neglected to protect the rights of our citizens.

He closed with a glowing tribute to Gen. Bevier's war record.

LABOR GOING TO POLITICS.

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—A convention of workmen of Chicago, called by a committee of twenty-one appointed some time ago to consider the advisability of the workmen entering the full political contest, met at the North Side Y. M. C. A. Saturday night to make any nominations. Nothing was done except to select a temporary chairman and adjourn subject to the call of the committee of twenty-one. There was a lively struggle between the Socialists and anti-Socialists. G. D. Dixon was chosen temporary chairman, which is considered a Socialist victory. Among those present and on the platform were Mrs. Parsons and Mrs. Holmes, the Anarchist women.

Later the committee of twenty-one met and blacklisted all the organizations that had opposed nominating a ticket, and on Sunday night representatives of several of the labor unions met and decided to call a meeting to be held Monday night to organize an anti-Socialist labor party. Both factions will meet Monday night according to present arrangements, but separately.

The Plume at Chicago. CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—There are no new developments here regarding the pneumonia. The officials are still considering the question of how to pay for the slaughtered cattle and what to do with the carcasses not infected. The stock yards people vigorously oppose the sale of the meat, as they say it would injure their business very seriously. In the meantime the government of Iowa has issued a proclamation quarantining against Illinois, and it G. Hund, president of the International Range Cattle association, has issued an address from Denver calling upon all western cattle men to take immediate steps to prevent the spread of the disease westward. A dispatch from Akron, Ohio, says thirteen head of cattle have died of the disease on a farm in Summit county, Ohio.

WHISKY AND DEPRAVITY.

SHOCKING REPORT FROM THE MINNESOTA INDIAN COUNTRY.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 27.—Messrs. Wright and Laramie, of the Indian commission, which has been arranging treaties with the Indians of northern Minnesota, are in the city for a few days. They report a most deplorable condition on the part of the Indians in the state of whisky to Indians to prejudice them against the commission. The theory is that so long as the Indians can be kept outside of reservations and open to the advances of the whisky traffic, they can be led to part with the money they make by the sale of rice and lumber for whisky. The Indians of Leech lake reservation sold this season 800,000 worth of rice, and the government states that a large part of this goes to buy whisky. At White Oak Point, the Indians were found in a most deplorable condition. In some instances they had been completely demoralized and to entirely rid of the means of subsistence that they would eat of the skins of diseased horses. The men were in a revolting condition and seemingly lost to moral sense, while the women were made aware of the enormities of their conduct. The last scene that the commission witnessed as it pulled out its ransoms from White Oak was touching, as well as terrible. Upon the bank of the lake, in the midst of a chilling rain, a poor Indian woman, Indian, gave her tears to show that nature seemed to be shedding. The husband had just sold one of her children, a girl not more than 15 years of age, to some lumberman for a sack of flour. It is said by the commissioners that there are many more cases of this kind, and as good as sold to white men, and after being robbed of all the white men's, are turned adrift with tiny babies in their arms and other girls taken in their place.

CRESCENT CITY "GUARDIANS"

INMATE NEGRO GIRLS, OPEN FIRE ON AN UNOFFICIAL MAN AND HIS CHIEFMAN.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 27.—Saturday night at 10 o'clock police officers Maberry, Evans, Seating and Saunders, who had been stationed at the Fifth ward police, were returning home in a peaceful condition. On Burgundy street they saw two negro girls sitting on the steps, and applied insulting epithets to them. The girls rose to leave, when they were knocked down by the police. One of the officers named James Smith came along and was ordered to move on. Before he could comply one of the officers seized him by the throat and ordered him to place a revolver to his head. The negro girls then rose and ran down the street, pursued by all the officers, who fired a dozen shots at him, and he received two slight wounds.

While the shooting was in progress Hung Lang, a Chinese restaurant keeper, put his head out the window to see what was up. As he did so Saunders took deliberate aim and sent a bullet into his right eye, inflicting a fatal wound. The negro and all the officers were arrested. The police officers claim that the negro killed the Chinaman, but all witnesses agree that the assault on Smith was unprovoked and that he did nothing but run.

KILLED FATHER AND SON.

BRANDED, Minn., Sept. 27.—On a government claim a few miles east of here Sunday a settler named Davenport killed two men named Polley, father and son in a dispute about the claim. Davenport left, leaving his wife and child, the wife was found lying on the floor dead. He apparently feared lynching at Atlin, his nearest town, and coming to Deerwood, he was boarded a freight train. He came here and surrendered to the sheriff, and is now in jail.

A NEW ORLEANS POLITICAL INCIDENT.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 27.—A primary election of Saturday resulted in a tragedy Sunday, in which a prominent politician was killed by a newspaper reporter. Frank Waters of the City Item, an evening paper included in the strictures on the part taken by the police in the contest of the Eighth ward. As he was on his way down town in a street car Sunday, he was hailed by Joseph Baker, leader of the dominant faction in the Eighth ward, who inquired if he was the author of the article. Waters replied that he was, whereupon Baker called him a liar. Waters responded with a blow, and Baker drew his revolver. Waters was only a second or two later with his weapon, and his shot followed Baker's almost instantly. After the first shot the two men backed away from each other, and Baker fired two more shots. Waters not receiving the first shot, was uninjured, but Baker received a ball through the abdomen and bladder, and will probably die.

—Some youthful sons of the best families in the city gathered in the fourth ward park last evening and looked upon the hop juices which it gareth its color to the tomato can. —Frederick Mohr, who was reported last Friday as having disappeared from his home in La Prairie, turned up this morning. As was supposed, he had been stopping with relatives at Jada, and they thinking that perhaps his whereabouts had not been made known to the family, decided to bring him back. —At Milton yesterday the best services over the remains of A. C. Stannard were held, the Rev. Mr. Barrow officiating. The attendance of friends and relatives was also large and the services were very impressive. The remains were interred in the cemetery at Milton.

—The telephone office in this city will be under another manager after October 1st. T. J. Gallagher who has had charge of it for some time past has given his resignation to take effect on that date. He will go into business in Chicago, and his place here will be filled by Frank Quinn, now line inspector at Madison. Patrons of the Janesville exchange will feel sorry that Gallagher has decided to "let her go" as far as the telephone business is concerned, for no manager has ever given any better satisfaction.

—Unlike the managers of many of the fairs this year, the Rock County Agricultural society has decided to pay their premiums in full. The officers of the society deserve much praise for this in view of the bad season that has just been passed through. Those who have accounts against the society will receive orders for the amounts by calling at the store of W. T. Vankirk.

—The twelfth annual convention of the Young Men's Christian Association, of Wisconsin will meet at Baraboo on Thursday afternoon, October 14th. The programme is an attractive one, and the leading christian workers in this and adjoining states will aid in making this the most interesting convention yet held. Free entertainment will be given all delegates and reduced return rates on all railroads. Persons who propose to attend should send their names to E. R. Sidell, Baraboo, on or before the 10th of October, that entertainment may be secured.

—Last evening just as the good people of Janesville were on their way to church, a couple of drunken roughs were indulging in a reckless drive about the city, frequenting Main and East Milwaukee streets. While going at a fearful gallop up Milwaukee street near the street car barn, the frightened horses undertook to dodge a car, and was thus thrown into a gutter, striking the apron leading into the barn. The drunken occupants were thrown violently to the ground, the wagon was demolished, and the horses were considerably bruised. By-standers put the beasts in a stable, and in a few minutes Marshal Hogan and Officer Ed. Smith, with the patrol wagon, fell upon the drunks and placed them in the county jail. They were too drunk to enjoy good health.

—It has been presumed that one of the wisest men among the republicans of this county would have settled upon the proper method of procedure in the matter of calling a convention to nominate a candidate for state senator in place of Mr. Sale, appointed judge. But so far as we can learn, no plan has yet been determined upon. We do not question the judgment which prompts the delay, for very likely, it is the best course to pursue, that the people may arrive at a clear understanding of their own convictions in the matter of candidates. Of these, or rather of those who would serve the county well in the capacity of state senator, there is no scarcity. We do not know that any gentleman has personally announced himself a candidate, yet in discussing the matter the names of John Norcross, Hon. A. P. Lovjoy and Hon. Mr. Patterson, of Janesville; Hon. S. T. Merrill and Hon. R. J. Burdick, of Deloit; Hon. L. T. Fuller, of Evansville; Hon. G. C. Cheever, of Clinton, are frequently heard. There may be others besides these. With so many good men to select from, the task before the convention that meets soon here would seem to be, therefore, a comparatively easy one.

STATE SENATOR.

Frederick Mohr, in New Senatorial Convention.

This morning Judge John W. Sale, the republican candidate for state senator, handed Mr. Cyrus Miner, chairman of the republican senatorial committee, the following note declining to be a candidate for that office:

JANESVILLE, Sept. 23d, 1895.

To the Executive Committee, Seventeenth Senatorial District:

GENTLEMEN—Having been tendered by the governor the appointment of county judge for Rock county, to fill the unexpired term of the late Hon. Amos P. Prechard, and having decided to accept said appointment, I hereby withdraw my name as the republican candidate for the state senate. In withdrawing from the senatorial nomination I do not forget the generous and hearty support accorded me by the people of Rock county for that nomination; but I trust I can serve them as acceptably in the county judge's office as in the state senate. In retiring from this nomination, I desire through you again to offer to the people of Rock county my sincere thanks for the support they have always so generously accorded me.

Very Truly Yours,

J. W. SALE.

Hon. CYRUS MINER, Chairman Senatorial Committee.

Mr. Miner immediately addressed a note to each of his colleagues on the senatorial committee, giving the substance of the above letter, and suggesting a call for a new senatorial convention to be held on Saturday, October 10th. Upon receiving a favorable reply convention will be called accordingly.

Judge Sale assumed the duties of his new office this morning, one of the first official acts being the appointment of Miss Abbie Richard clerk of the county court. Miss Richard is the daughter of the late Judge Prechard, and has had considerable experience in the work of the office, being employed at clerical work by her father. She is a young lady well qualified for the position.

The Weather.

At seven o'clock yesterday morning the thermometer indicated 52 degrees above zero. Partly cloudy with northwest wind. At 1 p. m. the register was 73 degrees above zero. Cloudy with north wind. For the corresponding hours last year the register was 57 and 85 degrees above zero. At seven o'clock this morning the thermometer indicated 62 degrees above zero. Cloudy with northwest wind. At one o'clock p. m. the register was 70 degrees above zero. Cloudy with northwest wind. For the corresponding hours one year ago the register was 57 and 89 degrees above zero.

Buy a box of Fairbank's Soap, put it on a shelf, the longer kept the better it will be.

Our State Senator.

To the Editor: Since the appointment of Hon. John W. Sale to the probate judgeship, what better man can be found to represent us, than the Hon. James Monies, of Harmony. A gentleman eminently qualified to perform all the duties incumbent on a state senator. Mr. Monies is well and favorably known throughout Southern Wisconsin, where he has resided since childhood and the prefix Hon. to Mr. Monies' name stands for honest as well as honorable. Let us elect such a man and do ourselves credit by such a representative.

FIRE AT ALBANY.

The Murray Opera House in Ruins.

J. H. Hicks' Drug Store and G. J. McAttee's Grocery Store and Restaurant Burned.

At 1:30 o'clock this morning fire broke out in the Murray opera building, in J. W. Hicks' drug store, which resulted in the destruction of Murray opera house; J. W. Hicks' drug store and G. J. McAttee's grocery store and restaurant. J. F. Little's general stock, occupying a store adjoining, is considerably damaged by water flooded upon roof and floor of the J. O. O. F. Lodge situated over the store. A heavy storm, accompanied by terrific lightning was raging at the time the alarm was given. Mr. B. J. McAttee, who occupied the north store room in the Murray building, says he heard a noise in J. W. Hicks' drug store about one o'clock, which he took to be the work of burglars. He went to the rear of the building and fired off a gun to alarm the neighbors. Mr. Dave Glassey says he heard drilling and pounding and a report of an explosion and thinks burglars were at work on Mr. Hicks' safe. In a few minutes after the report was heard, fire was seen issuing from the rear of Hicks' drug store. It is evident that the fire resulted from burglars. An attempt was made to enter Frank Warren's house a short time before the storm of fire was heard. At this writing we are unable to gain all the particulars. Loss about $15,000 partially insured. The fire department are deservingly of much credit for skillful management in confining the flames to the Murray opera building. The heavy rainfall also aided materially in staying the flames which at one time threatened to cross the street and take in Burke block and Smith and Gravenor's block. Some combustible must have been used by the burglars which caused the fire to spread so rapidly. Geo. W. Bartlett's stock of drugs was damaged to some extent by being removed from the store.

Since writing the above we learn that Murray's opera house was insured for $4,500, and J. J. McAttee's stock for $500 and J. W. Hicks' for $3,500.

ANOTHER ACCIDENT.

ALBANY, Wis., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—About 1:30 o'clock this morning the people of Albany, Wisconsin, were awakened by loud explosions and the cry of "Gee!" One explosion followed another until the people became terrified and ran into the streets to ascertain the cause. It was discovered that Murray's new block was on fire, involving five stores. The originating point being J. W. Hicks' drug store and B. J. McAttee's confectionery store and restaurant which were soon totally destroyed. Following this came Old Fellows' hall; J. F. Little's grocery and G. W. Bartlett's drug store which were gutted by fire and water. Then as a result of explosion followed the crushing of all the windows in the opposite side of the street owned by Bonker Bros., J. Holm, Bies & Hanna, and others, the total loss will probably reach $25,000. Insurance not known. This is the second time the same ground has been burned over within three years. The cause in this instance is supposed to be burglary and incendiarism. It is yet impossible to get at the causes of the various stores to ascertain their condition and the amount of money stolen. No loss or injury to life sustained.

Marshal Hogan has received a dispatch from the village marshal at Albany stating that a large reward has been offered by J. W. Hicks for the arrest and conviction of the persons who burglarized and fired his store this morning, confirming the supposition that the fire was caused by burglars.

Make no mistake, but ask your grocer for Fairbank's Soap, the best in the world.

AT THE CHURCHES.

A Lecture on the "Manners and Customs of the Holy Land—Other Religious Notes.

One of the most instructive and interesting lectures of the kind that has ever been delivered in the city was that of the Rev. Frank L. Lee, of Whitewater, at the Congregational church last evening. The subject was "Manners and Customs of the Holy Land," and being by one who had gained his knowledge by personal observation it was listened to with the closest attention. Mr. Lee said that the East of to-day and the East of bible times were practically the same. Scriptural passages are soon illustrated every day; manners that are spoken of by the ancient writers still prevail; and the implements, dress and surroundings of the people are the same as when they were described in the New Testament. Everything is exactly the opposite of what it is here. Houses are built upon into a court instead of into the street. The roofs are flat and after the rough boards have been laid on a thick covering of earth is put over them. This earth is pounded and rolled until it makes a hard surface that is not easily soaked through.

Grass grows upon it and those living in the house take their promenade there out of sight of those on the street.

The bottles of gobs skin mentioned in the bible are frequently seen, though since the coming of the Mohammedan religion they are more frequently used to carry water than to hold "new wine." There are many other features of life in the east were spoken of in a way that brought them almost into the view of the congregation; and the discourse was, as before stated, a very entertaining one. The pulpit at the Presbyterian church was occupied yesterday both morning and evening by the Rev. S. Bill, of Deloit. Mr. Bill preached two very able and scholarly sermons.

The Rev. B. W. Spaulding, D. D., who was the first pastor at Christ church, has again been called to that pulpit. He is now at Madison but will assume the duties of his new charge about the first of November. Mr. Spaulding is a gentleman of rare ability and his return will be heartily welcomed.

The Methodist churches were without pastors yesterday on account of the annual conference.

THE BOWER CITY.

One of the Thriving Cities of Interior Wisconsin.

Sturdy Push for a Leading Place Now Making by Janesville.

Under date of September 24th, a correspondent of the Chicago Herald writes: As the morning train from Chicago on the Northwestern road crosses Rock river at Monterey and the engine's shrill whistle denotes approach to Janesville, a most picturesque and romantic scene is presented to the traveler. The hills are tinted with the variegated hues of September. The broad river lies gleaming in the sun. The banks are rich in color, the trees luxuriant in foliage. In the distance is the pretty town, the church spires of which stand out tall and white. Taken altogether, the landscape picture at this point is an unusual one. It is possible to journey for days even in so charming a state as Wisconsin without coming upon a view so lovely. Yet, in spite of all this beauty, Janesville has for over thirty years nestled between these low hills without exciting the least comment. A little progress—just a little—has been made every year. The boys have become men, the girls matrons, the men of middle age have joined the seniors, the seniors have tottered in the grave, and some are now on the verge. The growth has been gradual—almost imperceptible—from year to year. Occasionally an over-ambitious man has spread himself on a three story building or a domicile with the more modern contrivances. Now and then a sprouting young merchant with more ambition than capital has started a store on a big scale, and by dint of assiduous effort has succeeded. Some fine cotton, woolen, and flouting mills have been erected and give a show of industry. First one railroad and then another out across the prairies and through the forests to make a whistling station here. In the course of events twelve or fifteen thousand people have gathered here—so thrifty and well disposed as most mortals. But there has always been an air of precariness and foginess about the town. No one ever expected that Janesville would take on a boom. It is the last place in Christendom that would be looked to for great aspirations.

So what is just now perplexing a multitude of people is that Janesville, not so very obscure, not in point of fact, so wonderfully flourishing, should all of a sudden, without premonition or apparent cause, begin to develop under the invigorating pulsation of real estate and building speculations. If it had the strong incentive of large commercial demands, like Minneapolis or Kansas City, for example, there might be a reason for it, but it seems a trifle presumptuous for a little back country borough to suddenly assume metropolitan airs. When, however, one looks into the matter, it is easy to find grounds to expect that the sudden stimulation will continue in downright earnest. In at least two important respects Janesville has the vantage ground. It has a much of the farm produce of the richest sections of Wisconsin and Illinois, and it is distinctively the market for all the tobacco raised within a wide radius. It may be as well to say here that Wisconsin tobacco is now the favorite wrapper for the choicest brands of cigars in all leading factories. It has taken precedence of the fine leaves of the Connecticut and Pennsylvania plants, and this industry will swell the city's income and the capital of Janesville over a million a year. The Chicago & Northwestern railway company has taken a sudden fancy to Janesville and is building a short line out off in order to give it a percentage of the freight business and lumber business. This line will be finished in November, and will completely clip the noses of Deloit and Harvard. The company further proposes to build large shops and a new depot here. It produces an eye opening sensation to not what has been a closed since last March, when the first evidences of the boom were perceived. The central streets are literally lined with electric lights. The police department is provided with patrol wagons, similar to those in use in Chicago. Two lines of street cars traverse the city from end to end. Water-works have been contracted for, and the materials have been ordered. An appropriation has been made to repave two streets with Belgian blocks. A bewildering amount of small building operations are in progress. A cozy new opera house is being built, with elaborate appointments, by Oscar Cobb, of Chicago.

It will be opened about Nov. 1. In every direction some major improvement is noticed. Real estate dealers are busy about with a knowing twinkle in their eyes, and say that the transactions are abundant at constantly increasing prices. The most startling scheme that has yet been announced in connection with this new state of things is a large summer hotel to be built on one of the highlands adjacent to the city. It is somewhat of a breach of confidence to notice it here, but Chicago capital is being largely interested in the plan. It is to be erected on a scale far ahead of any Western resort, with all the rich old fashioned comforts of a Queen Anne inn. The site selected is said to contain two springs, the waters of which are highly impregnated with healing qualities. Nothing could be more appropriate for Janesville. These who have visited a Wisconsin summer resort, particularly in this region, will bear witness to its charms. And this is the fairest part of the larger state, with its majestic hills, winding streams, and laughing green valleys. It is a mecca for the infirm, a paradise for children. It is hinted that the hotel will be ready for occupancy in the summer of 1897, and then tourists will flock to this Eldorado.

The best solution of the cause of this new departure is doubtless found in a change of climate. It is just like everything else in this world—its destiny depends upon strong individuality. Janesville has always had elements that could be turned to great advantage, but it lacked the head to direct them in proper channels. The man who was first and foremost in everything for over a quarter of a century was Peter Meyers, a hard and wily little descendant from the Puritan Dutch, who owned an enormous amount of property. To say that he was conservative is to put it tenderly, and when his mind was once fixed upon a thing he was not to be budged from his purpose. It always struck him that what people had done without for years that could be very well done a little longer, and so he plied on and his neighbors followed in his wake. But as the youth of the city grew to manhood and observed the progress everywhere appeared in the great west, it was natural that a revolt should occur, and that Meyers would be relegated to a rear seat with his Puritanic supporters. It was in this manner that Phil, Norcross came to the front and assumed a leadership that has already strengthened and secured the city.

Norcross is a young man of spirit. He has traveled much and been a close observer. He has all the qualifications requisite for a "boss," but, unlike most of his class, he has his own self respect in demonstrating his convictions. He does not urge a single project in which he will not personally invest. He certainly has the capacity to hold up the boom he has started, and his following includes all the business interests. While the foregoing article contains many flattering sentences for the Bower City it is very evident that the writer possessed a vivid imagination and a superficial knowledge of facts. Mr. Meyers is too well and favorably known in the city to which he has contributed so much to advance her prosperity, to merit the insinuations contained in the article. While the history bestowed upon Captain Norcross will be considered by that gentleman equally invidious for Janesville is on the eve of prosperity because of a combination of favorable circumstances. The gentlemen named, and many others will be recognized as interested and ready to encourage every enterprise which tends toward our growth and development.

OBITUARY.

ANN S. PALMER.

Another old settler gone—Ann S. Palmer, widow of the late Deacon John N. Palmer, died at the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. Wm. Alcott, of Spring Valley, at 8 o'clock a. m. Sept. 23d, 1895. Her maiden name was Ann Snow, and was born in Lyme, N. H., April 10th, 1803. She was married to Mr. Palmer Feb. 22d, 1832 and resided in Oxford, New Hampshire until 1845 when they emigrated to Rock Co., Wis., arriving at Janesville, July 3, where they remained 18 months then settled on a farm in Magnolia, where they continued to reside until 1870, when by reason of the Deacon's failing health he sold his farm and built a residence near his son, N. N. Palmer, where he died Sept. 4th, 1873. After the death of her husband she lived with her son, N. N. Palmer, and her daughter, Mrs. Alcott, alternating as inclination or circumstances required. At the time of Mrs. Alcott's death last April she was dangerously ill at her son's, apparently near her end. She rallied however and regained a fair degree of health but not her accustomed strength. As soon as she was able she returned to Mr. Alcott's fire with her two grand-daughters, and as far as possible to fill the place of their mother. She was for many years a devoted christian, her church relations being with the Freewill Baptists. Her life was quiet and unassuming, but she was warmly loved and respected by all who knew her. Her last illness was short and she suffered but little, as she had lived so quietly and peacefully. The funeral services were held at Brookfield, Friday, the 24th conducted by the Rev. Chas. C. Bolcott. She was buried beside her husband in the cemetery at Brookfield.
